Mr. Desflorado

Mr. Desflorado, named after its Connecticut Desflorado wrapper, involves a precise and rare procedure implemented during the blooming phase of the tobacco plant. In this distinctive process, the uppermost pink flowers of the plant are deliberately removed prior to seed formation. The outcome of this technique is twofold: it deepens the shade of the leaf's hue and infuses it with a significantly sweeter taste profile. Complementing this wrapper, is the addition of an African Cameroon binder along with carefully selected fillers sourced from Nicaragua, Dominican Republic, and Colombia. This harmonious combination of elements results in a symphony of flavors that tantalizes the palate.
